Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
A warm night ahead, thundery rain possible for Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
A warm and humid night. Partly cloudy with a chance of isolated thundery showers this evening until around midnight in the north, otherwise some dry and clear spells developing. Perhaps becoming cloudy toward dawn from the south. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Friday:
Cloudy on Friday, with outbreaks of thundery rain possible. Cooler than previous days, especially in the west, but still feeling humid. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Largely fine, dry and warm through this period with sunny spells. However isolated showers are possible on Sunday and Monday. Some coastal fog possible, especially on Saturday and Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.